Gregori Hollis

Besides being a trumpeter, composer, and multi-instrumentalist, he is passionate about fusion and an explorer of new horizons.

His avant-garde music invites listeners on a journey through the fusion of modern jazz and urban music, with Afro-Cuban and flamenco influences, all wrapped in an immersive and atmospheric electronic soundscape.

He draws on influences from a well-established career in jazz, having collaborated with artists such as Rita Payés, Chano Domínguez, Miho Hazama, Guillermo McGill, and Fabia Mantwill, as well as in pop and urban music, collaborating with C. Tangana, Catriel & Paco Amoroso, and Amaia.

Now I Know

This is Gregori Hollis' second album and fourth recorded work. "Now I Know" seeks to represent the infinite and cyclical nature of learning, where the process of acquiring knowledge humbly reveals ignorance as an essential part of the journey.

The concert stands out for a repertoire made up entirely of original compositions, the virtuosity and sensitivity of the musicians in the ensemble, and a dynamic flow that captivates the audience from beginning to end.

The project is presented in a modern jazz quartet format, featuring piano, keyboards and synthesizers, electric bass, and atmospheres created through samplers, bringing an urban and electronic sound that expands the traditional boundaries of jazz. In addition to the trumpet, Gregori Hollis incorporates congas and vocals into the live performance.
